

Licensing agreement

By purchasing the Ant Design System for Figma ("Item") you are being granted a license to use this file for specific uses under certain conditions.

This license grants the user an ongoing, non-exclusive, worldwide license to utilize the digital work ("Item").

You are licensed to use purchased Item to create unlimited End Products for yourself or for your clients and the End Product may be sold, licensed, sub-licensed or freely distributed.

An end product is one of the following

For an Item that is a template, the End Product is a customized implementation of the Item.

For example, the item is package of UI elements and the End Product is your unique finished web app design or mobile app.

You are allowed to:

- You may publish the item in your team library within your organization for participants (depends on a license you bought).
- You may create an End Product for a client.
- You may create an End Product for personal or commercial use.
- You may sell, license, sub-license or distributed and make any number of copies of the End Product.
- You may modify or manipulate the Item.
- You may combine the Item with other works and make a derivative work from it. The resulting works are subject to the terms of this license.

- This is a 'multi-use' license, which means you may use an Item multiple times, in multiple projects.

You are not allowed to:

- You can't share the item link into the web or distribute (e.g. embed) with Figma public access.
- You can't place any of Ant Design System for Figma design files into the End Product as it is.
- You can't redistribute the Item as stock, in a tool or template, or with source files. You can't do this with an Item either on its own or bundled with other items, and even if you modify the Item.
- You can't re-distribute or make available the Item as-is or with superficial modifications.
- You must not permit an end user of the End Product to extract the Item and use it separately from the End Product.
